5 ways... to hair remove like a pro

Hate hair removal? Here's how to smash it in less time, with less pain.

Nair's Facial Wax Strips $7.95 (pack of 24)

1 CUT YOUR TIME DOWN

One of the worst things about hair removal is the time you waste doing it. Speed things up by combining it with your shower. In-shower hair removal creams work super fast—throw them on while you're hair conditioning—and use razors with moisture panels to replace shave foam.

2 REPLACE YOUR RAZOR FREQUENTLY

If you find your razor isn't giving you the silky smooth pins you dream of, it's probably because you need to be changing it more often. When the blades are blunt they won't cut hair as effectively, leaving you with stubble.

Hair grows in several directions in this area, so if you're just shaving downward, you might not be cutting it close enough, making for quicker regrowth.

Schick Quattro for Women in Pearl and Papaya $11.99

3 WARM UP YOUR WAX PROPERLY

If you're using strip wax, make sure you rub the strip until it pulls apart really easily. This means the wax inside has melted enough to be effective at grabbing hairs.

4 PLUCK BROWS AFTER YOU SHOWER

Is brow maintenance, like, the most painful thing you can imagine? Reduce the ouch by plucking after a warm shower. Hair is way easier to remove, so you'll get less redness and heaps less pain.

5 SHAVE UNDERARMS IN BOTH DIRECTIONS

About laser...

If you've got a serious hair sitch or are prone to bad ingrowns, you might wanna consider laser. Lauren Isaacs of Bay Laser Clinic says, "With a full course of laser hair removal, you're looking at 90 per cent less hair in the area." It is permanent, though, so think it through carefully.
